What is the Edge score

The Edge score is a numerical representation that assesses your trading performance. It grants you a comprehensive and distinctive insight into your trading abilities, empowering you to flourish in your trading journey.

It is a weighted average of three measurable components of trading: Skill, Risk, Consistency and then multiplied by a discount factor depending on your Experience.

- Skill Measures your ability to generate profits while effectively managing drawdowns.
- Risk Evaluates your proficiency in managing risks effectively.
- Consistency Reflects your ability to achieve consistent gains, which showcases your understanding of market dynamics.
- Experience Assesses whether you meet minimum criteria for displaying credible trading experience.

Quarantine

If a trader exceeds the maximum allowable losses in their Allocation Account, the account will be moved into quarantine. When entering a quarantine period, all open positions in the Allocation Account will be closed, no further funding allocations will be made, and use of the Allocation Account will be paused until quarantine has been completed.

A quarantine period is scheduled to end two weeks from the date the account was first placed in quarantine, provided the account meets the stage qualifying criteria. If, at the time the quarantine period is scheduled to end, the account equity and/or Edge score are below the required level, the trader will not be able to commence the stage or use the Allocation Account until the requirements are met.

Quarantine periods

- First quarantine: You will be invited back to the previous stage two weeks from the date the account was placed in quarantine, provided qualifying criteria have been met.
- Second quarantine: You will be invited back to the previous stage two weeks from the date the account was placed in quarantine, provided qualifying criteria have been met.
- Third quarantine: You will be invited to rejoin the programme at Seed stage, provided qualifying criteria have been met.

Quarantine does not apply to the Seed stage.

Once you reach the Pro stage, should you drop to quarantine you'll be invited to return to the Pro stage again (provided this is not your 3rd drop to quarantine).

What else do I need to know?

Deposits

- Depositing additional funds during a stage will not result in a corresponding increase in the Allocation Account funding.

For example, if a trader is at the Acceleration stage with $2,000 USD in their Axi account, a x25 multiplier, and an Allocation Account of $50,000 USD, even if they deposit an additional $2,000 USD aiming for a maximum Allocation of $100,000 USD, their credit allocation will not increase. It remains at the original $50,000 USD.

Withdrawals

- If a trader initiates a withdrawal, the Allocation Account is reduced immediately by the withdrawal amount multiplied by the multiplier amount. Open positions are not automatically closed. If, however, after the withdrawal, the trader reaches Maximum Drawdown in their Allocation Account, they may enter quarantine status.
- It is the trader's responsibility to ensure they do not withdraw below the required amount. If they do, they will drop to quarantine.
- Withdrawal at any point during the month will result in the trader forfeiting any profit gained during that period. The Allocation Account will reset, and the multiplier will be recalculated based on the current funds in the Axi Select account and newly reset multiplier.
- To avoid any penalties, traders should withdraw once Performance Fees (PFs) have been paid out and before opening the first position in the new month. Once PFs are paid out, the trader can choose to withdraw and consequently set the multiplier for the month before placing a trade. Once a trade has been placed, the period will be deemed to have commenced, and the multiplier will be set.
- Example 1: If PFs were paid out on the 1st of August and there are no trades open by the 15th, and the trader requests a withdrawal, their Allocation and Multiplier are adjusted. Once a trade is placed, the multiplier will be determined, and any withdrawals made afterward is considered a mid-month withdrawal.
- Example 2, If PFs were paid out on the 1st of August, and the trader opens a position on the 2nd, then requests a withdrawal, their Allocation and Multiplier are adjusted. However, any profit share owed to the trader so far for this month will be forfeited.

Account maintenance requirements

- The minimum number of trades criteria is calculated only for full calendar months. Therefore, if you join partway through a month, you will not have to meet the criteria for that month. For example, if you enter a stage on the second day of the month, the minimum criteria of trades will not apply for that month.
- To continue participating in the Axi Select programme, traders need to ensure they meet the required minimum equity for each stage. The minimum equity ranges from $500 USD at the Seed stage to $4000 USD at the Pro M stage. Traders must also adhere to the minimum trade requirements and other conditions specified for each stage to avoid quarantine. Regular account reviews are conducted to ensure that they are due diligent.

Performance Fee (PF) payouts

For each stage of the programme, you may be entitled to receive a percentage of the profits gained, provided that:

The Allocation Account balance is higher than the original Axi funding amount at the end of the calendar month; and

There are no open positions in the Allocation Account.

If the above criteria are met, you will be entitled to receive a percentage of the profits, based on the difference between funds in the Allocation Account and the original Axi funding amount.

If you have any open positions at the end of the month, no payment will be made from the Allocation Account to the Axi account.

Performance fee payouts will be credited to your Axi Select account on the first day of the calendar month.

For example:

You are in the Incubation stage, starting with $10,000 of Axi funds in your Allocation Account and, at the end of the month, your Allocation Account has an account balance of $11,000. In that scenario, $400 $[($11,000 - $10,000) \times 40\%]$ will automatically be paid to your Axi Select account and your Allocation Account will be reset to $10,000 on the first day of the month.

However, if you have open positions in your Allocation Account at the end of the month, no payment will be made, and your Allocation Account will remain unchanged. Only once the Allocation Account is flat at the end of the month will funds be transferred to your Axi account.
